How does Reddit work?

Communities, votes, and reputation: the three mechanics that run everything

- Subreddits = communities. Anyone can create one each with its own focus, rules and moderators (r/France, r/SaaS, r/marketing...).
- Moderators set the rules. Volunteers (not Reddit employees) define what each community accepts. Break the rules, get banned from instantly.
- Posts & comments are voted in real time. Upvotes push content up, downvotes bury it. The crowd ranks every piece of content, not the algorithm.
- Karma = your reputation score. Earned only through upvotes from real users, over time. Cannot be bought, cannot be faked.
- The "front page" is dynamic. What you see depends on the subs you join, what you've upvoted, and what's trending right now. No two users see the same Reddit.

→ Why does this matter for brands?

Reddit isn't a publishing platform; it's a trust machine. Quality bubbles up, spam gets buried, and accounts build credibility over time. This is exactly the signal Google and LLMs are looking for.

Reddit is EEAT materialised

Reddit fits Google's EEAT criteria like a glove:

Experience: First-hand use cases ("I tried this 6 months...")

Expertise: Niche subs curated by domain experts

Authority: Karma + account history = verifiable trust

Trust: Upvotes/downvotes = quality filter

→ The results: Reddit is structurally immune to the AI-content flood Google is fighting

Reddit's Sistrix visibility went from #68 to #2 in 18 months.

15% of AI Overview answers cite Reddit

From SEO winner to LLM training corpus

Reddit is the #1 cited source across every major AI, and even when it's invisible, it's still shaping the answer.

THE PLOT TWIST

In September 2025, ChatGPT's visible Reddit citations dropped from 14.3% to 0.21% in a single day. Reddit's stock fell 14% in five days.

Except that's not what actually happened. Ahrefs analysed 1.4 million ChatGPT prompts and found Reddit was still being retrieved, but was cited only 1.93% of the time. ChatGPT didn't stop using Reddit. It just stopped showing it.

Training data: Reddit is in the foundation

Google paid $60M/year. OpenAI signed in May 2024.
Reddit's content shapes how Gemini, ChatGPT, and others were trained before any query is ever typed.

Real-time retrieval: Reddit is in the answer

Perplexity, ChatGPT (with browsing), and Google AI Mode pull from Reddit in real time to complement their training.

Invisible influence: Reddit is what you don't see

Even when LLMs hide the citation, the source still shapes the output. Your brand is being described, ranked, and recommended through Reddit conversations (whether anyone tags them or not).

Reddit: The most cited platform across all models

Steve Huffman, Co-founder & CEO of Reddit

“LLMs would not exist as we know them without Reddit.

Reddit is one of the single largest sources of training data for the LLMs and Reddit continues to be one of the primary sources of both training data and we’re also the most cited, the most cited platform across all models”

Steve Huffman interview, 25/05/2026

5 reasons your business needs to be on Reddit today!

Search visibility: You appear where buyers look

Reddit ranks for "best X for Y", "X vs Y", and review queries: the ones closest to conversion.

AI presence: You exist in AI answers

Reddit shapes how LLMs and AI Overviews describe your category. Be in the source, or missing.

Brand truth: You control your own story

LLMs cite Reddit, whether it praises you or pans you.

EEAT signals: You build trust you can't fake

No amount of owned content can manufacture real user experience.

Audience intelligence: You hear what nobody tells you

Real-time, unfiltered signal from advocates, detractors and prospects

All sectors are not impacted the same

Reddit's impact varies sharply by vertical:

Sector	Exposure	Why it matters
SaaS B2B & dev tools	Critical	r/SaaS, r/marketing, r/devops: 'best X for Y' queries dominate
FinTech & payments	Critical	r/personalfinance, r/Entrepreneur: trust is decisive
E-commerce & DTC	Critical	r/BuyItForLife, r/SkincareAddiction: review queries flow here
Travel & hospitality	High	r/travel, r/solotravel: long-tail decisions ("best chalet in Megève")
Health & wellness	Medium	Google enforces institutional authority; Reddit complements
B2B Enterprise	Medium	G2 + Reddit shape evaluation
Luxury & high fashion	Medium/Low	Niche subs exist but limited SERP/AI impact
Institutional / public	Low	Official sources preferred by AI engines

30-second test: Type your top commercial query. If Reddit appears in the top 10, in 'Discussions and forums', or in the AI Overview, you're greatly concerned.

What you lose from not being present on Reddit

Losses

- Opportunities: 60% of AI searches end without a click.
- Visibility: 32 billion Google searches per year end with "reddit" appended
- Trust: 71% of buyers who discover your brand elsewhere go to Reddit to validate it.
- Decisions: 74% of users say Reddit helps them decide faster

Losses

- Validation: 73% of B2B buyers cite peer recommendations as their most trusted source. Reddit is where those peers gather.
- Authority: Reddit ranks for 595M keywords in Google. Every absent thread is a missed AI signal.

- How to develop your presence on Reddit?

Reddit is not a marketing channel. It's a community you earn the right to speak in.

Redditors detect self-promotion instantly. The brands that win are those who contribute value before asking for anything in return.

Push content like Twitter or LinkedIn

Broadcasting branded messages without context gets ignored or downvoted. Reddit rewards conversation, not corporate copy-paste.

Expect visibility without contribution

Reach on Reddit is earned, not bought. Without posts, comments and genuine participation, your posts stay invisible.

Get banned and wonder why

Every subreddit has its own rules and moderators. Ignore them and your brand gets removed, shadowbanned or publicly called out.

The only rule that matters

Contribute first. Earn trust second.
Speak third.

Brand Account vs. Personal Expert

Two legitimates ways to exist on Reddit. Each has its use case, its risks , and it's ceiling

BRAND ACCOUNT

Identity Company name, visible affiliation

Trust ceiling Low → corporate by nature

Best for AMAs, official responses, crisis management

Reddit tolerance Tolerated if transparent

Risk Downvoted if tone feels too much corporate

PERSONAL EXPERT

Identity Expert, consultant, employee, User

Trust ceiling High → humans trust humans

Best for Organic contribution, community building

Reddit tolerance Rewarded if authentic

Risk Shadowbanned if history looks fake

Create a brand account when you have community credibility.
The personal account builds the trust that makes the brand account believable

Brand Account vs. Personal Expert

Two legitimates ways to exist on Reddit. Each has its use case, its risks, and it's ceiling

PERSONAL EXPERT

Transparency vs. Anonymity

Reddit has an unwritten but strictly enforced norm: you don't have to reveal everything, but you cannot actively deceive.

REDDIT TOLERATES

- Disclosing affiliation: "Founder of [X] here, obviously biased, but..."
- Sharing authentic client testimonials and case studies
- Pseudonymous accounts with real, consistent contribution history
- Mentioning your product naturally at the end of a helpful response, or running an honest AMA

REDDIT PUNISHES

- Not respecting subreddit rules (check the sidebar every time)
- Copy-paste responses across multiple subreddits
- Asking for upvotes : Reddit detects external referrers and vote bursts
- Any account with zero post history suddenly promoting something

Choosing Your Subreddits: The 3-Type Framework

Sniper, not shotgun. How to pick where you show up

TYPE 1 — NICHE

r/SEO · r/SaaS · r/marketing

Your core audience.

Actively looking for your solution or advice.

High competition, strict rules.

Massive reward if done right.

TYPE 2 — ADJACENT

r/smallbusiness · r/freelance · r/Entrepreneur · r/managerIT

People who need your product but aren't searching for it.

Lower defenses, higher discovery potential.

Often overlooked.

TYPE 3 — LOCAL

r/Paris · r/Boston · r/UnitedKingdom

Gold for local brands.

“Best accountant in the 11th district”
= warm lead, less competition.

Systematically underused.

BEFORE YOU POST – 4-STEP SUBREDDIT AUDIT

1. Read the rules sidebar in full : some ban all self-promotion, others have a weekly promo thread
2. Check the top 10 all-time posts : what format wins here? ories? Data? Memes?
3. Assess mod activity : if mods remove 40% of posts, walk on eggshells
4. Read the tone : r/ProgrammerHumor vs r/ExperiencedDevs require completely different voices

Tips:

- site:reddit.com + KW
- Reddit Ads setup → free subreddit suggestions

The 2 comments formats That Works

Know which to use and when, they don't impact the same way.

FORMAT 1 – Brand Experience

"Hey founder of [X] here, so obviously biased. But we built this specifically for [problem]. Free tier available if you want to try first. Happy to answer questions.

[Add more expert information regarding the question of the user]"

FORMAT 2 – Experienced User

"Been using [client name] for a few months initially just for [client services/product]. Turns out it also handles [other client services/product]. Not gonna lie, set up took some time, and the auto-messages felt robotic at first. After tweaking the tone, it just runs in the background now.

No idea if there are better alternatives out there, haven't really looked since it does the job for us."

WHY THESE FORMATS WORK ON REDDIT

- Answer the question. Value before mention.
- Disclose the bias. "Obviously biased, but..." disarms the spam reflex.
- Conversational tone. No marketing copy, no CTAs : sounds like a real person.
- Name a friction point. A small honest flaw builds more trust than perfection.
- Mention alternatives generically. "Other tools exist, but..." : without naming competitors directly.

Avis sur comptable LMNP en ligne

VanaTallinn · il y a 3 a

Je suis en train de passer chez Amarris Immo, avec conseiller pour cette première année (et j'en ai besoin car mon ancien comptable ne veut pas me donner le tableau des amortissements donc il faut refaire de zéro...).

J'envisage de faire moi-même avec un outil les années suivantes. Mais je n'ai pas encore franchi le pas.

Par contre je suis en location à usage de RP pas en Airbnb. Donc la compta est un peu plus simple.

Le site n'est pas dingue mais simple et efficace et la conseillère d'accueil m'a accompagné en écoutant mon problème et a pu trouver une solution en parlant avec l'expert-comptable en interne donc pour le moment c'est bien.

r/immobilier · il y a 6 m.

Expert comptable => Comptable en ligne LMNP

RewoiP · il y a 6 m.

Hello,

Pas mal de "logiciels" ne font pas de reprise compta. JD2M le fait en mode "expert" donc à 600€. Attention, la réduction d'impôt dont parle Thibault2121 n'existe plus. Maintenant c'est plein pot.

Perso, j'utilise Qlower, qui apporte en plus des conseils toute l'année et permet la connexion bancaire pour 269€ TTC. Suis chez eux depuis 3 ans, c'est nickel et je sais qu'ils ne prennent aucun frais supplémentaire pour la reprise de compta.

Pour changer de comptable, il faut que tu envoies une "lettre de fin de mission" et que tu demandes la dernière liasse fiscale et le tableau détaillé des immobilisations. Il va te le fournir.

Idéalement, tu peux aussi demander aux impôts ton Mémento Fiscal, comme ça tu auras déjà tes paramètres de télétransmission, et ça simplifiera la vie du comptable qui te reprendra.

We use bonusly. It integrates directly with our internal messaging system (Slack), allows for peer-to-peer or manager recognition, and gives "points" which can be redeemed for gift cards or cash. We're also adding a feature where employees can redeem points for company swag at employees request.

The 6 Fatal Mistakes

How brands get permanently banned and why the damage outlives Reddit

01 Posting promo in week 1

Shadowban. You post, nobody sees it, Reddit never tells you. You waste weeks thinking you're live.

02 Multiple accounts, same IP

Account A posts, Account B comments on same thread = both deleted instantly. Separate proxies or mobile data per account.

03 Writing in marketing language

Redditors detect corporate tone in seconds. Downvoted within minutes. Write like a DM to a friend: lowercase, contractions, real opinions.

04 Commenting on dead threads

A thread with 2 upvotes from 2022 ranks nowhere. Target threads with 50+ upvotes published in the last 18 months.

05 Ignoring subreddit rules

Getting banned from a 500K-member sub for a stupid rule violation is an irreversible disaster. Read the sidebar. Every time.

06 Chasing vanity karma

10,000 karma on r/memes is worthless for B2B SaaS. 200 karma on r/SaaS is gold. Go where your buyers actually live.

The fallout :

683,000 downvotes on a single comment, the most in Reddit history. BBC and CNN covered the thread. EA cut character unlock costs by 75% within days.

Disaster Case – Nissan

Ask Me Anything (AMA) - 2015

The community is faster than any moderator

What happened :

During a Reddit AMA hosted by Nissan leadership, Redditors quickly noticed that several highly favorable questions appeared to come from suspiciously new accounts with little to no posting history. Users accused the brand's PR team of planting questions to steer the conversation and artificially improve sentiment around the AMA. One comment summed up the backlash: "Why is Nissan's PR team asking itself questions?" The thread rapidly shifted from discussing Nissan to investigating the authenticity of the participants.

The fallout :

The community collectively analyzed account age, karma scores, posting histories, and interaction patterns to expose what they believed was coordinated astroturfing. Trust in the AMA collapsed almost immediately, and the discussion became an example of how fast Reddit communities can self-police manipulative brand behavior. Marketing and SEO publications later cited the incident as a cautionary case of failed community engagement and inauthentic corporate participation on Reddit.

The lesson :

Reddit users are extremely sensitive to authenticity signals. Unlike other social platforms, credibility is tied to visible account history, participation patterns, and earned reputation. Communities can detect manufactured engagement faster than most moderation systems or PR teams anticipate. On Reddit, transparency and genuine participation outperform scripted messaging or artificially seeded conversations.

3 Golden Rules on Reddit Ads

Paid Reddit works when it looks like Reddit, not like an ad

01 RULE 1: Match the community tone

Write your ad copy like a Redditor, not a copywriter. No exclamation marks. No "revolutionary" or "game-changing."
Lowercase when appropriate. Real language.

02 RULE 2: Test organic before you pay

If a message doesn't work organically, paying to amplify it makes it worse, faster. Validate your angle with an organic post first. Then scale what resonates.

03 RULE 3: Use Conversation Ads as content strategy

Every Conversation Ad that generates comments is creating indexable content. Brief your team on monitoring those threads and engaging authentically in the comments, it multiplies the organic value of every paid euro spent.

SEO x SEA Synergy

The most effective visibility strategies combine Google rankings, authentic Reddit conversations and targeted Reddit amplification.

SEO captures existing demand

- Rank on high-intent queries
- Capture transactional traffic
- Build topical authority
- Feed AI systems with structured content

Organic Reddit builds trust

Organic Reddit role

- Ads accelerate distribution
- LLMs amplify trusted discussions

- Reddit:
Part of the pillars for GEO

What should you do with all of this?

Reddit is already part of how your customers research, decide, and validate.
The real question isn't whether to be there: it's how, and how fast!

Where Reddit fits in your strategy:

- Brand presence: be findable in subreddits where your category is discussed every day.
- AI visibility (GEO): every Reddit thread is a potential training signal and citation source.
- Conversion acceleration: AI-influenced traffic converts 5x harder than traditional organic.

But Reddit alone isn't enough:

- It's one pillar of a 5-pillar GEO strategy, alongside YouTube, LinkedIn, Wikipedia, and review sites..
- It rewards consistency, not campaigns
- It demands a human, not a brand voice
- It compounds: the right thread keeps citing you for years.

Reddit is your entry point. The full GEO strategy is how you compound.

Reddit is one pillar; a 360° strategy needs all of them
